

City celebrates its shops

CAMBRIDGE celebrated the city's shop successes last night as Love Cambridge marked a successful first year with an awards ceremony.

Love Cambridge, a partnership of various city-centre groups, gave out awards in three different categories at its first Annual General Meeting.

The female fashion boutique Boudoir Femme scooped two awards - Best Overall Customer Service, which was shared with Bella Napoli cafe, and Best Ambassador to Cambridge, which was shared with the Granta Boat and Pub Co.

In the Way To Be awards to recognise those who go the extra mile to accommodate those with disabilities, Richard Thompson of Thompson Taxis won the transport award, while Cambridge On Ice was the overall winner.

The Junction won the Safer Socialism award, which encourages late-night entertainment venues to ensure the safety of those enjoying an evening in Cambridge.

The awards were presented by Mayor Sheila Stuart.

Asides from the awards ceremony, Emma Thornton, head of Love Cambridge, reviewed the year's work and said the group was excited about its plans for Cambridge over Christmas.
